By Marcus Tullius Cicero

Forgotten Books, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****. Excerpt from Friendship One of the people, was estranged by a deadly hatred from Quintus Pompey, who was then consul, with whom up to that time he had lived on terms of the closest union and affection), how great was the surprise and even regret of the people. Accordingly, when Scaevola had incidentally mentioned that very subject, he laid before us the discourse of Laelius on Friendship, which had been addressed by the latter to himself and to the other son-in-law of Laelius, Cains Fannins, the son of Marcus, a few days after the death of Africanus. The Opinions of that disquisition I committed to memory, and in this book I have set them forth according to my own judgment. For I have introduced the individuals as if actually speaking, lest said I and said he should be too frequently interposed; and that the dialogue might seem to be held by persons face to face. For when you were frequently urging me to write something on the subject of friendship, it seemed to me a matter worthy as well of...
